

Surprise!

Trump was a Deep State Plant

April 6, 2022

The American people placed great hope in Donald J. Trump, expecting him to lead them to the promised land, to wrestle the United States out of the grips of an international crime syndicate that was stripping people of their freedoms, rights, and assets.

What they failed to realize is that Trump had been groomed for the Presidency decades ago to serve as a populist candidate indebted, and ultimately controlled, by the Rothschilds, the dynasty bankrolling and driving a New World Order, with Communist China as global hegemon, a world government seated in Israel. and power concentrated around the Vatican and City of London.

Trump ceased being his own man in 1987 when he acquired a 93 percent stake in Resorts International, a casino whose principal investors were Tibor Rosenbaum, David Rockefeller, and Baron Edmond de Rothschild. Once indebted to the international criminal elite, he was essentially owned by them.

While the Rothschild and Rockefeller dynasties were driving globalism around the world, Rosenbaum cultivated the Mossad and partnered with organized crime figures like Meyer Lansky, who co-founded the National Crime Syndicate in New Jersey and invested in casinos that Trump promoted.

As an intelligence asset and shame merchant, Lansky compromised political leaders, judges, and other influential people on behalf of a shadow elite by way of blackmail.

Wherever they went, people were bought and paid for, eliminated, or otherwise compromised, as aspiring dictators surrounding the Vatican sought to corral the world's wealth, power, and markets within their own hands.

As their influence spread throughout the nation, the government, and its institutions, so did crime.

Shame was a powerful weapon that Trump himself used against rivals.

He shamed people based upon their looks or other superficial qualities.

Other times, he directed his underlings to dig up dirt on people while those associated with him weaponized the government to defend their own interests while undermining others, at times, even criminalizing efforts to enter their markets.

Before connecting to Jeffrey Epstein, a Mossad asset and pedophile who allegedly procured children for the British Royal family and other elites, Trump retained Lansky's protégé, Roy Cohn, as counsel.

A shame merchant and compromise agent in his own right, Cohn invited influential marks to orgies and then took pictures for safe keeping. As Trump struggled to make payments on casinos, his bankers attempted to offload him until Wilbur Ross intervened.

A leading bankruptcy advisor for the Rothschilds, Ross appreciated that Trump's greatest asset was his brand as a "successful businessman," and so he negotiated better loan terms while allowing his client to serve as a figure head who embodied the American dream.

"While the name Trump appeared in the headlines, the names of the real movers behind Resorts International remained hidden from public view," Michael Collins wrote in The New Jerusalem.

These figures were leading drivers and beneficiaries of globalism who operated in the shadows and beyond the reach of the law.

While Trump was struggling in the casino business, the banks were illegally foreclosing on properties to seize the assets.

In 1988, a class action involving illegal bank foreclosure on farms stumbled upon the criminal actions of the shadow forces subverting the nation, which involved establishing illegitimate government and fraudulent banking systems, revelations that became the basis of National Economic Security & Reformation Act (NESARA) – legislation, now under court seal, aimed at restoring integrity and legitimacy to governments and financial institutions within the United States, while unleashing trillions of dollars in prosperity funds to the people which had been misappropriated.

With growing awareness of the color-of-law institutions and fraud against the people, elites were panicking.

Royal biographer Joseph Gregory Hallett said that in 1988, the “esoteric CIA,” which is responsible for fulfilling Biblical prophecy, arranged a meeting between him and Trump to brief them on how they would restore virtue and integrity to governments worldwide.

Hallett was to be King and Messiah while Trump was President, with both trained for the roles they would play on the world stage.

Together they would preside over the fall of the House of Windsor, the Vatican, and the “illegitimate” government in Israel, which, Hallett said, was governed under a Rothschild knesset, instead of a Jewish temple, as required by the terms of its establishment.

The fall of the House of Windsor and exposure of Rothschild’s color-of-law governments would take place when Trump was President and be credited to him since they coincided with the expiration of the Rothschild’s 200-year contract with the Crown.

Esoteric or not, the CIA was an extension of a global intelligence apparatus through which the Vatican and Rothschilds were advancing an agenda for a New World Order.

In the midsts of apparent reform to the corrupt global system, elites would be driving the global agenda while unleashing sophisticated psychological operations against the people, the likes of which this country has never before seen.

Once he was sworn in as President, the people thought that the Deep State had been defeated, that the corrupt Bush, Obama, and Clinton political dynasties had been swept aside.

This is clearly what the shadow elites wanted the public to believe.

Disinformation targeted the people from all directions as desperate elites sought to consolidate their position under the fog of war.

Trump’s supporters were called upon to suspend all critical thinking and enjoy the show. “It’s all pantomime,” Trump’s self-appointed mouth pieces in the alternative media told hopeful patriots.

If patriots were truly in control, why not just bring forth the truth in an honest, forthright manner, with supporting evidence?

Why was so much obfuscation and disassembling even necessary?

The excuse given by Trump's self-appointed mouth pieces was that the American people were not ready for the truth and would have to be led towards it, as a horse to water, through blatant disinformation and cognitive dissonance.

The implied message was that one should not trust one's own eyes, the facts, common sense, or even one's own research, but "trust the plan" of shadowy figures in the alternative media who professed inside knowledge that no one could independently verify.

Trump's diehard supporters liked to say that the President was playing 5-D chess.

His moves were so advanced, brilliant, and nuanced that no one, but a select few, could determine what they really were.

Disinformation, or lying to the public, was an important part in keeping the "Deep State" off balance, his supporters were told.

The reality was, transparency, truth, and exposure backed by an Administration whose actions matched its rhetoric, would have packed a powerful knock-out punch against the treasonous elites.

However, as Judge Anna Von Reitz observed: the grassroots patriot movement was an extension of the Bush political machine. "I know all the people" who bankroll the freedom movement and patriot tours," she wrote. "I know how they operate.

These are the same ones who have been going around the country for decades selling people Freedom Packages for $6,000 a pop, that don't work.

These are the people that will sit around at a cocktail party and talk out of both sides of their mouths until you get dizzy."

The highly publicized national patriot tours, which amounted to little more than cheer leading sessions bereft of any real substance, solutions, or tools for patriots to reform and reclaim their governments from the hands of criminals, were just "theatre productions," she said. "Just be aware that there is a hidden Svengali in the weeds (and) that once again, you are watching a play."

Cognitive dissonance is what many were experiencing.

The disconnect dissipates once it's understood that Trump was an extension of the Bush political machine.

A former director of the CIA, Bush was a member of Skull & Bones, a secret society at Yale University that created and funded the Communist Chinese revolution and groomed Mao Tse-tung.

During the Nixon Administration, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, who owed his allegiance to the Rothschilds and City of London, led efforts to normalize relations with Communist China, with Bush assisting – an agenda delayed by the Watergate scandal, which New York Det. “Jimmy Boots” Rothstein said was really about recovering a book containing lists of influential pedophiles.

While working for Nixon, Kissinger remained in constant contact with Victor Rothschild, an MI5 disinformation agent and advisor to British Prime Minister Edward Heath, a pedophile whose crimes were “covered up by the establishment.”

The Washington Times went on to document a pedophile network implicating influential people surrounding Bush, who directed the CIA and enlisted Lansky to train assassination squads for use against the Cuban government.

Bush's father, Prescott Bush, worked for Averill Harriman, who established and bankrolled Skull & Bones. “The Harriman clique took possession of the U.S. Security apparatus, and let the Bush family in,” Webster Tarpley and Anton Chaitki wrote in George Bush: The Unauthorized Biography.

Bush's secret command center in Florida was Jupiter Island, the location of the Trump National Golf Club. Not only that, but Lara and Eric Trump bought a home there as did Les Wexner, the Victoria's Secret mogul implicated in to the Epstein pedophile network.

Trump's exclusive Mar-a-lago club is five miles away from Jupiter Island.

If there is a secret White House in Florida, the Bush political machine is running it.

The secret behind the Victoria's Secret lingerie line was that Queen Victoria, for whom the line was named, retained the legitimate British blood line while producing a brood of illegitimate Rothschild heirs who were bred into Royal families throughout Europe after crashing the Rothschilds crashed the British stock market in 1815.

It was through bloodlines, interbreeding, and secret genetics programs that the international crime syndicate was able to weasel its way into positions of power.

Jupiter Island was the command central for the Bush political machine which was blocking NESARA and desperately trying to launch the New World Order.

In 1991, a newspaper reported that Jupiter was “an astonishingly private club (where properties were) only sold to those who fit in.”

The security and surveillance on the island were the best the Deep State had to offer as Harriman made Jupiter his “staging ground for his 1940 takeover of the U.S. National Security apparatus.”

It has been described as “a powerful center for the covert management of the federal government and an incubator for psychological warfare operations to ensure “a stable worldwide environment favorable to (the City of London’s) financial and political interests.”

Harriman and Bush were leading proponents of eugenics and mass sterilizations. With funding from Harriman, the American Eugenics Society was established and headquartered at Yale University, where Prescott Bush, as trustee, promoted the sterilization and psychological programming of “unfit, unnecessary people.”

If this mindset evokes memories of the Nazis, that is because Harriman sponsored the eugenics movement to sterilize “undesirables” before the Nazis employed this tactic against Jews and gypsies.

In 1969, George H.W. Bush told the House of Representatives that “unless the menace of human population growth were recognized and made manageable, starvation, pestilence, and war will solve it for us.”

The cornerstone of Bush’s New World Order was population reduction.

Bush even promoted vaccines as a method for birth control. “We have a clear precedent,” he said. “When the Salk vaccine was discovered, large scale programs were undertaken to distribute it. I see no reason why similar programs of education and family planning assistance should not be instituted in the United States on a massive scope.”

Perhaps the developments that unfolded during the Trump presidency make more sense when understood within the context of the Bush intelligence and security apparatus managing it.

Trump was a friend of Jeffrey Epstein who, along with his family members, were featured prominently and frequently in the pedophile's little black book.

Trump was himself allegedly accused of abusing underage girls with Epstein, according to court documents.

His treatment of his attorney general, Jeff Sessions, reflects efforts to protect pedophiles over children victimized by them. Once Sessions appointed Geoffrey Berman U.S. Attorney for the Southern District of New York, prosecutors unsealed the Epstein case in the Manhattan federal court.

Once the information was revealed, Alan Dershowitz, a lawyer for Trump and Epstein and close personal friend to Lynn Forester de Rothschild, claimed credit for unsealing the case. "There are no new accusations against me (with regards to my engagements with Epstein) in the documents I got unsealed," Dershowitz tweeted. At the same time, alt-right figure Mike Cernovich claimed that he was the one who had unsealed the documents.

With no mention of the New York attorney or credit given to Sessions, Cernovich wrote: "Over 2,000 previously sealed documents in a case involving Jeffrey Epstein are now available. The documents were sealed under court order until Mike Cernovich of Cerno Media filed a motion to unseal the documents.

The Miami Herald soon joined his lawsuit, and the Second Circuit Court of Appeals ordered the records unsealed. You can support our journalism directly here." While these two were kicking up dust over their alleged role in unsealing the Epstein papers, Trump forced Sessions' resignation.

Sessions was promptly replaced with William Barr, who had worked for Kirkland & Ellis, the firm which negotiated the pedophile's sweetheart deal – with U.S. Attorney for the Southern District of Florida, Alexander Acosta, whom Trump tapped for Secretary of Labor.

When asked during confirmation hearings whether he would undergo a "full and thorough" investigation into the Justice Department's handling of the Epstein case, Barr recused himself and fired Berman.

When Sessions attempted to regain his Senate seat in Alabama, Trump actively campaigned against him and backed the Senator's challenger, Tommy Tuberville. "Three years ago, after Jeff Sessions recused himself, the fraudulent Mueller scam began," Trump tweeted. "Alabama, do not trust Jeff Sessions. He let our Country down."

Far from letting the country down, Sessions was a national hero for his role in helping to bring Epstein's crimes to light! If Trump were truly taking down the Deep State, he would have supporting him too.

Epstein worked for Deutsche Bank, where Lynn de Forester Rothschild served as advisor and board member. The bank, in turn, had a decades-long relationship with the Trump Organization.

Rather than looking to politicians for answers, the people must find the courage and resolve within themselves. If we stand together as a united people against the encroaching tyranny, we can reclaim our country, its culture, and its institutions.

There are only a few individuals and firms against the many.

Awakened and empowered, with virtue intact, the people are unstoppable. If God is with us, who can be against us and prevail?
