

Imagine This...

The following to some may seem like a fictional portrayal of the future, to others it may seem like a premonition of things yet to come. As all thought is creative on various levels of manifestation, the very act of visualizing a reality in your imagination, especially one that is in alignment with your heart's desire and in the alignment with the desire of many other souls on this planet, has a creative effect toward the manifestation of that reality upon the collective consciousness every one on earth shares. Therefore this creates a potential future timeline different than the timeline course the earth is presently experiencing in the direction it is heading. When the truth is disclosed, it has a means of resonating within each of us and therefore has power far greater than a lie.

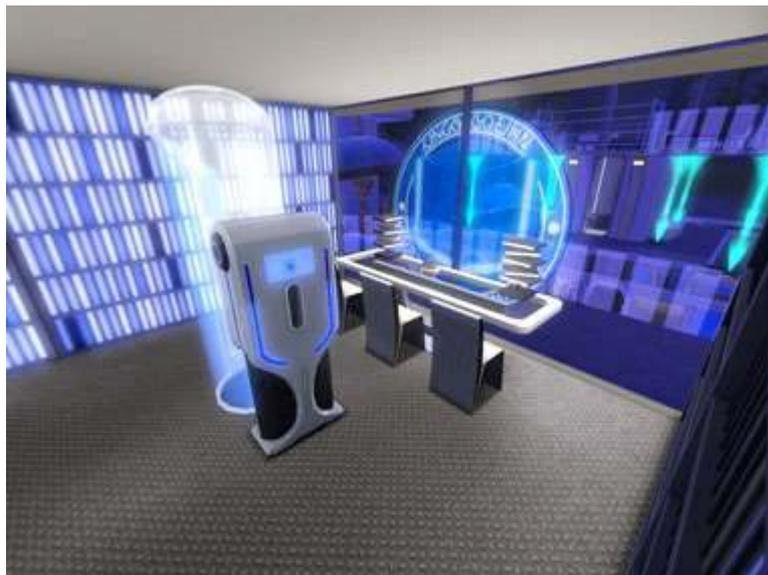

This story or vision is meant to seed your imagination in visualizing our planet in the future, in which children from this future time are historically studying and looking back at the past challenges that all of earth's people faced, that was perpetrated by a small group of people who attempted to control the entire world through deception. Through our collective awakened spiritual awareness, the people exposed their deception and caused their plan to fail, which stopped the further destruction of the planet. This ushered in a wonderful new era for a harmonious civilization for all beings on earth.

Our Story Begins...

In a time in our not-too-distant future, in a very different world than today, children studying the history of our evolution here on planet earth will look back with a clear and accurate account of historical events from the very origin and beginnings of the human race on earth.

From this future perspective looking back through time, the entire planet is now thriving, living in harmony and abundance with all beings on this planet, as well as interactions with established relations with other advanced off-planet peaceful civilizations.

As these children reviewed the past historical record archives of mankind, from a great vast depository library in the future, they observed how the human race struggled to evolve amongst the deceptive and manipulative elements of the past that challenged mankind's spiritual growth and understanding through the great expanses of earth's history.

Looking far back historically through time, revealed how the early primitive interpretations were made of interactions with off-planet cultures, that originally spawned earth religions. This as well as early inaccurate scientific concepts from the then imprecise observations, such as believing the earth to be flat and being at the center of the universe, to the eventual current and universal acceptance that the universe has always been filled with many various life forms outside of our planet.

Some of these off-world cultures have greatly evolved over millions of years of time, and have been interacting with us since the very beginning of our presence here on Earth. These other beings have always been with us but needed before making global contact, for the human race to awaken and no longer give consent to the earthly deceptions and become aware of the universal spiritual nature of who they are in order to become a peaceful civilization to interact with.

The children of this future have learned that their past ancestors and the many wars since antiquity that has been done by humans in their attempt to control and dominate over others, first started with primitive weaponry of swords, arrows and eventually bullets and cannons.

In the 20th and 21st centuries as technology advanced, greater weapons of mass destruction were created including thermonuclear, chemical and biological, to name a few. The detonation of these nuclear devices affected other interconnected dimensional realities, triggering a grave concern of off-planet cultures. While an enormous amount of money was dedicated to the science of killing people, many people on the planet were impoverished and starving.

With the world operating upon a universal monetary exchange system, the vast majority of wealth on the planet came into the control of an organized group of individuals that were able to deceive most of the world and maintain their power through secrecy and expand their wealth at the cost of adversely affecting many lives and the environment.

By either placing or replacing individuals that would carry out their agenda in executive management positions of government, they effectively furthered their agenda, while giving the people of the world the illusion that they were in control of those they elected to carry out the will of the people.

Through the use of secrecy, they were able to keep their operations hidden from the masses. This extreme secrecy they initially found available through certain avenues in secret societies whose members had to maintain an extreme oath to secrecy.

But the greatest avenue of secrecy for them was through the creation of intelligence agencies within the government that required the use of secrecy for their operations. They did this under the auspices for the security of the nation and good of the people, in which they effectively infiltrated and used this national security secrecy instead to hide and conduct all their hidden operations for this group's agenda.

Although there were those in high positions who attempted to warn the unsuspecting public, their methods of ridiculing, discrediting and silencing effectively kept their message from fully reaching the public, which even then, would be unable to be comprehended by the public that such activity was occurring.

With the expansion of the world's ability to communicate to the masses more effectively, through newspapers, radio, and television, the majority of mankind became controlled by this group through deception, predominately by a new kind of warfare, a warfare of the mind.

Through such agencies working in concert with corporations they controlled, they were able to control the distribution of the public's global communications media in order to manipulate their perception to gain the consent of the masses, while their true hidden agendas they carried out remained secret to the public.

By understanding how to psychologically engineer consent of the masses, they cleverly crafted psychological deception in order to secretly achieve their objectives. Their true objectives were kept secret and unrealized by the majority of humanity, whose perceptions they manipulated through the education system and the media.

As the people of this planet never wanted wars, wars were thus instigated through false flag events which yielded them even greater wealth and moved their agenda forward for greater control of the population with each successive war. The continual creation of enemies and the use of these false flag events led to the perpetuation of ongoing wars and the further impoverishment of the people.

They utilized a vast arsenal of highly advanced surveillance technology to electronically monitor all of the communications of the people, to know what in their minds they were thinking and therefore know how to control the population.

They also controlled other governments as well through covert operations and suppressed advances in new technological discoveries that would jeopardize their profitable, yet primitive, nuclear, oil and coal industries. This kept the people of the world in a technologically retarded state. Through various dogmatic religions, they kept the world divided through the suppression of universal spiritual knowledge and the power of consciousness within us.

They utilized fear programming in their media entertainment with a constant display of violent imagery of humans killing and hurting other humans, as well as putting fearful images in movies of life outside our planet in science fictional portrayals. This was done for the psychological support of one of their many future planned false flag events that utilizing their anti-gravity craft to hoax an off-world invasion, in order to unite and consolidate the world militaries as one government, that they planned to ultimately control.

While their control of the media continually suggested that the people of earth were not alone, the controlled government continually denied to the people that any evidence of extra-terrestrial interaction with earth exists, regardless of the many thousands of people around the planet who have witnessed off-planet craft and even sometimes their occupants interacting with the people of earth. Witnesses that attempted to come forward were discredited or silenced. Government congressional hearings were denied by the attempt to bring hundreds of military and intelligence witnesses with corroborating official documentation to factually prove this reality to the rest of the world. This suppression was done to maintain the secrecy of their hidden operations and advanced technologies.

Factions of this group in the past had secretly made deals with a certain predatory extra-terrestrial race in technology exchange programs to further advance their hidden underground civilization, which had rapidly advanced and greatly far surpassed the surface dwellers on the planet. They enjoyed the use of devices that yielded unlimited zero-point energy for power and anti-gravity craft, to name only a few scientific advances, of which they had many in every area of science. All this was funded due to the trillions of dollars they extorted from the public for their unacknowledged hidden projects.

On the surface they maintained a false illusion of needing rockets filled with fuel to go into space, all the while conducting their secret space program with their anti-gravity craft. This kept the majority of people on this planet believing we need fuel from oil for transportation and dangerous nuclear and coal power plants for electricity production.

Without respect to our beautiful home planet, this group allowed the continual degrading of our environment air quality from enormous amounts of carbon emissions into our atmosphere from vehicles and factories, oil spills in our oceans, fracking that polluted our drinking waters, toxic waste dumping in the rivers, and the release from nuclear power plants of highly dangerous radioactive waste into our oceans damaging life on the planet.

This self-serving group only considered the entire human race simply as a resource for their finances and labor. As the population of the planet grew, this group believed that it became necessary to implement eugenics procedures in order to maintain a much smaller controllable slave force and drastically reduce 90% of the population through several methods in such a way, as to have an effect slowly over time so as not to alert the people to their depopulation agenda. They used geoengineering of the weather to devastate areas with drought and fire and destroy food crops to blame it on the weather, while other areas became devastated with flooded due to engineered storms. They genetically modified the world's food supply, so that consumers would be sterilized and reduce the lifespan of the population by affecting their immune systems to become susceptible to diseases, which wide range of various sickness due to compromised immune systems provided yet another source of profit.

They supplemented this with highly poisonous fluoride in the water, lab created diseases and toxic mercury in vaccinations they pushed intended to treat these diseases. They filled the beautiful blue skies all over the planet with chemtrails filled with aluminium and barium sprayed from aircraft, which further damaged life on the planet. Many had become sick and sometimes unhealthily overweight from nutritionally devoid highly processed foods and drinks provided by their food corporations.

The medical establishment, made up of doctors that have been educated with the materials provided by their infiltrated pharmaceutical corporations, whose methods treat the symptoms of a host of diseases through the highly profitable prescription of pills, which many times offered serious ill side-effects to further degrade health. While at the same time, with their infiltrated agents, suppressed alternative and or non-profitable breakthrough discoveries in health to the public.

In order to maintain these deceptions and keep the people of this planet in a retarded state, they utilized their use of great wealth, influence and infiltration to manipulate the history books in education to hide their past operations to future generations born into their deception. In archaeology, they hid historical evidence of discoveries that would contradict what they disseminated through their science and religious indoctrinated beliefs of mankind's origins.

Most importantly was their task to keep the people of this planet separated and divided through the use of fear and religious belief differences, and to deny our common connection of consciousness and the power we have within us to transform the world.

They removed and hid much ancient knowledge regarding the laws of creation and consciousness from science, education and religious materials in order to maintain control over the masses through the illusion of separation.

The great expanse of personal communication capabilities of the internet provided them another means of population control through the monitoring of the population's communications; it also provided a means for the people of the world to start sharing thoughts outside of their controlled mass media.

The people started to assemble the hidden fragments amongst the purposely placed disinformation to more clearly form a picture of the falsely indoctrinated world they have been born into. This awareness was assisted by the testimonies of hundreds of whistle-blower witnesses and leaked classified documents that alerted the population to the deception being perpetrated upon them.

The Turning Point...

The children of this future, reading our planet's history realized that this was the start of the turning point for the people of earth to reclaim their planet from this rogue group in a non-violent manner, by exposing them and using the rule of law.

As the consciousness of every being on the planet began to be affected through the propagation of thought throughout the collective consciousness, and through a vast number of perspectives through the alternative communications medium of the internet, the patterns of truth and lies started to emerge into greater awareness to reveal the deceptions and this group for what they were.

The awareness of these revealed hidden patterns of information exponentially accelerated a spiritual renaissance awakening across the entire collective consciousness of the planet that affected every conscious being, whether individuals were fully conscious of it or not.

Once the veil had fallen, revealing this groups actions and who they were, the truth became so powerful that deceptions everywhere became obvious and transparent to everyone.

The consciousness this spawned put the deceivers in a panic, as they had no place to hide and they knew no person would give them shelter for what they have done.

The people of earth understood that they had been deceived and had been deceptively pitted one against another based on their manipulated lies.

Through bypassing their controlled matrix of perception, utilizing both publications by scholarly researchers and the alternative media sources of the internet, researchers discovered that in the 1930s the cabal working with it's factions obtained assistance of a predatory extra-terrestrial race in which they formed an alliance with that helped them develop highly advanced weaponized technology to be able to intimidate government and military leaders in the United States in order to force them into entering draconian agreements in the mid 1950s, thus allowing them to fully complete their infiltration plan which resulted in no longer giving our legal government oversight or jurisdiction over their illegal secret operations. To coordinate their future agenda, the cabal set up secretive yearly meetings with those who could move forward their agenda in all areas of world influence such as finance, media etc. as well as selecting agenda compliant world leaders.

Fortunately, knowing the dangers that these forced agreements posed for the future of humanity, our government secretly set up a military intelligence unit that would become active if in the future the corruption and human right's abuse of this cabal were to ever get totally out of hand and eventually destroy the constitutional form of government of the United States. As a counter to the predatory group of extra-terrestrials, a benevolent group of extra-terrestrials assisted to help balance the power between these two forces of influence within different factions of our military. The cabal's full infiltration with its multitude of assets in high executive positions allowed them to create a matrix of perception for the public in order to hide their secret operations to effectively withhold their highly advanced technology from the world which only they would be able to control and benefit from. They were able to visibly hide these secret operations from public view with the construction of massive interconnected underground and under the ocean, as well as off-planet massive facilities that utilized slave labour. This slave labour force was in part responsible for the many millions of people that have gone missing without a trace.

Any technological advancements by scientists and inventors that would allow the public to technologically advance they immediately suppressed siting national security protocols they put in place. The school education system through the manipulation of history effectively hid their infiltration from future generations and grants for science research, especially in the areas of energy and transportation, were only approved in areas that would not empower the public, thus allowing the corporations that they controlled to continue to profit from primitive and environmentally dangerous technologies. Entertainment was given movie scripts that formed the public's perceptions of extra-terrestrials, as well as a multitude of violent and fear-inducing imagery in television programming and apocalyptic movies that programmed and influenced the subconscious minds of millions through the co-creative collective reality we all share. As their secret societies and occult knowledge understood the mechanisms of the hive mind to create reality as we know it. Their most important perception tool was their complete control through the corporations they owned to engineer the public's perceptions through the mainstream media.

The cabal knew that the creation of the internet would allow the public to exchange ideas and communicate outside of their controlled matrix of perception, therefore they funded and set up beforehand the fundamental platforms for internet information exchange in the 1990s. These internet platforms accumulated over the years a multitude of millions of users and indexed trillions of websites to fully monopolize the way people search and access information and allow on social networks to exchange information with others. These platforms would also allow the personal collection and monitoring of everyone to be profiled, analysed and stored in massive storage facilities which they planned in the future to use against all individuals that threatened to reveal their operations or who they consider to be a dissident to their agenda, with the ultimate goal to fully control the population. These search engines and social media platforms, in the beginning, also gave the public enormous tools for research and sharing with others information outside of this perception matrix which this information was revealed to a certain percentage of the population the infiltration of the cabal and its nefarious activities. These fundamental internet platforms that they controlled could then in the future be compromised later by them through censorship as yet another tool of perception management if needed.

After decades since the mid-1950s cabal agreements were made causing the denial of access by our legal government to these illegal secret operations, an effort was made that was supported by certain members of our military that were aware of this infiltration to expose the infiltration, in which good presidents in the 1960s attempted to warn the public about. But with their control of the mainstream media, these were only glitches in the false reality matrix the cabal had created. Unable to directly disclose this to the public due to the infiltrated military chain of command structure, which the cabal through the use of their surveillance profiling had purged hundreds of military command positions that were psychologically non-cabal agenda compliant. Due to the denial of access since the mid 1950s to presidents, heads of intelligence and CIA directors who were unable to disclose this to the world, the good people in the military worked behind the scenes in support of civilian operations to collect hundreds of military and intelligence witnesses, starting in the early 1990s to go before the mainstream media of the world in 2001 and disclose the truth to the world with these witnesses through legal congressional hearings. The cabal's control of the mainstream media effectively kept this disclosure from reaching all of the masses, yet over the alternative media of the internet, it awakened some alert and knowledgeable citizens to this hidden reality, and the information began to spread. Then the entire public was distracted as very shortly after, a catastrophic and catalysing false flag terrorist attack event captivated the world's attention in fear which allowed the justification with the cabal's false flag operation to enact draconian laws against the people and send our military to go to wars that would support the cabal's agenda.

Over the years that followed, more and more witnesses began to come forward, revealing different, yet corroborating aspects of these hidden illegal secret operations. At the cabal's yearly secret meetings in 2016, they selected their next agenda compliant presidential candidate that they would support through their controlled mainstream media that would follow in the footsteps of previous decades of compliant presidential leaders they selected, many of which were connected to secret societies that they control which the members swear blood oaths of allegiance to. The good people in our military intelligence knew the extent of corruption of their selected candidate and the future dark cabal agenda of draconian plans for the world's population. The military knew that they had to bring in a presidential candidate which would work together with military intelligence from the highest executive military position as the commander in chief to legally take down the corrupt infiltrated cabal from our government. Due to the open sharing of information of the alternative media of the internet, the cabal feared a global awakening of this reality by the public. The weaponized media employed every perception management tactic through its control of the mainstream media to persuade and divide the public against this new candidate that had not taken an oath of allegiance as a member of their secret societies and threatened the cabal's agenda.

Their fears became a reality with the unexpected election of this non-compliant with their agenda candidate, which the military specifically recruited so as to work with this new commander in chief to take them down and it totally took the cabal by surprise. The newly elected president aware of the cabal's full control of the mainstream media used the internet's social media to communicate directly to the public, bypassing their controlled negative divisive narrative against him. In order to bring into the public's awareness of these behind the scenes operations, military intelligence operatives anonymously seeded confirmable information over the internet exposing various elements of this plan to legally take down this cabal in order to help educate a public that has been a victim of the cabal's mainstream media perception management operations.

The new commander in chief working with the coordinated plans of military intelligence enacted new laws specifically against the cabal, so that those involved in corruption and human right's abuse, these laws could then be used against them, which would ultimately lead to them to being tried in military tribunals leading to subsequent incarceration in a military prison. Behind the scenes, the cabal's control infrastructure of their assets in high executive positions was being dismantled asset by asset to allow this plan to move forward without their obstruction or control. The massive electronic surveillance system of the world's communications that was originally set up by the cabal was taken over and now being used against them and to identify all of them and their criminal activities. With the legal structure now in place, tens of thousands of sealed indictments were collected with evidence of their treasonous subversive activities which justified the use of military law for tribunals against these individuals collaborating with the cabal for their crimes against humanity.

The cabal realized the threat of internet information sharing posed, as the awareness of their activities was spreading too quickly and they needed to control the public's perceptions that were being formed outside of their mainstream media control. So in order to have full dominance over of the public's perception, they utilized their control of the major internet platforms they set up which the millions of internet users have become dependent upon for communicating and researching. Through the use of both manual censoring as well as through the use of artificial intelligence algorithms programmed specifically to censor any revealing information in search engine inquiries, as well as being able to remove massive numbers of personal accounts on social media and video channels of those who revealed their corruption was done in order to hide these truths. These actions were done under the pretence to protect users from what they labeled as fake news conspiracy theories.

Through their control of the mainstream media and major news outlets, they effectively kept a percentage of the public divided, such as in the areas of political affiliation, race, class, culture, religion etc. with their psychologically engineered perception management operations which led many individuals to innocently and unknowingly support the cabals agenda by having their perceptions falsely engineered, pitting the public against each other as the cabals last hope to regain control and power through manipulated public consent.

But it was too late, the cabal knew that military intelligence had them all identified and the treasonous indisputable declassified evidence to put them on trial set for military justice and they were in a total panic. As more became aware of their psychological operations that pitting people against each other, their ploy then backfired on them, and all the world began to see transparently their obvious deceptions and the world united against them to see justice done.

And so it began...

Soon the cabal's control of all of the major mainstream media outlets from the highest executive positions that the cabal once controlled was taken over by military intelligence. Understanding that the public had been under psychological warfare generationally and had their perceptions falsely manipulated to hide their activities for so many decades, a careful psychologically presented disclosure was prepared to announce to the people of the world was broadcast through all of the mainstream media and alternative media channels. Due to the created division of the public that was due to the divisive narrative that was broadcast by the media, a state of temporary military control was enacted to quell civil unrest. The Emergency Alert System was used as well, to assure all the public has received this historic broadcast on all communication channels. This information broadcast to the people of the United States notified it's citizens as well as the people of the world that the military has secured control back to the people from an infiltrated domestic enemy, with conclusive and undeniable evidence of the corrupt criminal activities of this cabal operating within our government is now fully exposed for all to see.

This was shocking at first to many, due to the decades of false indoctrination, yet impossible to deny with the highly credible evidence and witnesses supporting this once hidden reality. The public once realizing this, the engineered divisions in the world began to heal from the toxic psychological operations which now became obvious for all to see. The world watched as the historic broadcast of military tribunals of the many thousands, including many famous well-known individuals involved in corruption and human rights abuse, such as treasonous subversion, sex trafficking, pedophilia and human slavery being exposed for all the world to see and judge. All of the human slavery in the hidden underground operations became liberated and restructured to return human rights to those that were once enslaved. To help educate and bring the public up to full awareness of this hidden history of decades of deception, Hollywood working with military intelligence created a series of films to slowly educate the public to the full truth in carefully psychologically prepared stages that revealed the infiltration and connections with extra-terrestrials and the hidden advanced technologies.

As the president stated during his inauguration speech, which hinted at unlocking the secrets of the hidden space operations, freeing the earth of disease and releasing the advanced energy and other technologies of tomorrow. Thousands of cabal placed National Security Orders given to scientists and inventors on discoveries and breakthrough inventions were released, allowing the world to benefit from these great minds that created solutions in all areas of science that were suppressed.

Even far greater was the release of currently operational highly advanced technologies that have been created within the cabals corporate unacknowledged black projects involving decades of research with some of the most brilliant minds having access to virtually unlimited funding, along with access to a greater and more complete scientific knowledge base, are then carefully rolled out to benefit the world as well.

Technological advances due to exchanges with other off-planet cultures gave an incredible technological boost to our suppressed civilization. All areas of everyone's life on planet earth are now systematically being affected through the release of this new knowledge and highly advanced technologies in many areas to improve the conditions of life for everyone on this planet, as well as the planet itself.

This global collective awakening affected everyone. Even the Vatican released suppressed hidden information of our true spiritual nature in their secret library archives, such as the knowledge of reincarnation, the omitted books of the bible and the proof of contact with off-world cultures in the past. Religious leaders around the world humbled themselves to the undeniable truth and the understanding of our spiritual nature that was revealed to the world, transforming their perception to see the core commonality of all religious faiths of the world and they were thankful to know the truth. This awareness gave us the truth of ourselves as being one with our creator. We chose to use our creative powers based on truth to expose the deception and transform the world for the good of all humanity.

So instead of their planned new world order, in which they entitled themselves to be the rulers of, instead the world did unite as one world, but to expose and put an end to the centuries of deception and their corrupt influences upon the people of earth, who universally vowed to never allow this to ever happen again to the people of this planet.

All those who worked within this group's secret projects began to come forward in mass numbers exposing their breakaway civilization with their secret space programs, as well as all the hidden technologies and the human rights abuses. Now they no longer had anyone to enforce their secrecy and do their bidding. Secret underground facilities and their operations became exposed for all to see. Those of the cabal and their agents who willingly stood down were given amnesty.

The technologies within these hidden projects then started to be carefully brought out to help clean up the damage done to this planet. A world council of accountable, wise and compassionate leaders representing the world's interests helped to oversee the great transition honouring all life on this planet and the planet itself as a living being.

All nuclear power plants were immediately decommissioned and retrofitted with zero-point energy power generation to substitute for the dangerous nuclear reactors. Previously classified technologies were used to neutralize all the nuclear waste created by these power plants.

Technologies were also available to help clean up and neutralize the leaked radiation in our oceans and groundwater. These energy devices were also used to help in the clean up of the environment from the past abuse, with procedures which were previously considered too energy intensive to use. The other primitive methods of power generation such as coal are shut down as well removing these air polluting energy sources as well. This initially allowed everyone still connected to the grid to receive clean power during the transition.

Millions of new jobs were created in manufacturing and in the massive task of retrofitting every home and business with small, fully independent decentralized power generation units utilizing clean and abundant zero point energy. No longer will there be a grave concern that a CME or EMP would take down our entire electrical distribution grid leaving many millions to die from the dependence on a completely crippled centralized electrical power distribution infrastructure. Once all of the homes and business have been retrofitted to be independent of the grid, the millions of miles of electrical transmission wires strung across the planet are then taken down and recycled. As the geoengineering chemtrails ceased, the blue skies once again returned and now without the ugly power lines no longer in everyone's view. New forms of mobile communications technology that does not have the negative electromagnetic biological effects on living organisms such as cellular and wifi, are rolled out to replace these obsolete technologies that once required cell towers.

The obsolete gasoline and diesel internal combustion engines are then converted to easily run on hydrogen from water or eventually be either recycled or retrofitted with non-polluting electric drives that do not require recharging due to onboard power generation. Eventually, cars will not require roads, as anti-gravity will be available, allowing many to live in normally inaccessible areas on the planet while preserving the natural beauty and landscape without the need for roads or power lines. Self-sufficient communities are constructed for the homeless and disadvantaged, giving them the opportunity to contribute and improve their lives with the basics of water, food, and shelter provided. With the nefarious chem-trailing and global geoengineering of our weather halted, droughts, fires, hurricanes, and flooding are minimized since the weather can now be controlled for the betterment of living and not for weather warfare purposes.

With the banning and destruction of weaponized genetically modified food against the population and the desalination of our ocean waters for crop irrigation, now agriculture can yield an abundance of healthy organic food so nobody goes hungry. All traces of the previously genetically modified crops were destroyed and advanced natural healthy methods of agriculture created a bounty of food production for everyone. Health care is now no longer operated as a profit-based business, and the pharmaceutical industry that controlled the education of doctors was replaced by the new sciences which understood the energetic nature of physical reality of our bodies and the relationship of consciousness with matter. These new medical technologies treated the core origins rather than symptoms of aging and disease, leading to a healthier society, physically and mentally. With the highly advanced secret space programs no longer a secret, anti-gravity non-polluting transportation systems allow people to commute in a few minutes what used to take several hours.

Teleportation allows yet another method of travel. What people once believed was only fantasy from the scriptwriters of science fiction movies is now being accepted as the new normal reality.

An unbroken era of universal peace enabled the billions that were previously living in misery and poverty to enter a world of abundance. The vast resources in the past spent on wars are now directed to improving life for all living beings and creatures on this planet. As we continually evolved as a species, we were a long ways yet from perfection, but the fact that humanity choose to do the right thing for the good of all instigated a giant step in progress toward a more happier and harmonious world for all to share.

As society became more educated, prosperous and technologically advanced, women had taken an increasingly equal role in society, and it was found that the birth rates fell and the population stabilized, thus allowing every soul on the planet to live out their life without the concern of population issues. With the ability to relocate populations in previously isolated areas on the planet as well as off-planet if desired, this eliminated over population and crowding concerns. Life extension technology allowed people to live far longer with a much higher quality of life.

Over time advanced genetics provided improved healthy earth bodies for souls incarnating onto the planet. Fewer weaknesses in human DNA provided healthier, less disease prone bodies that experience living a longer quality life on a planet which was transformed from the damages caused in the past to a beautiful paradise that the earth was always meant to be.

All weapons of mass destruction, including thermonuclear, chemical and biological were immediately disposed of. Weapons with primitive bullet projectiles were phased out of existence and being that the human race is in the processes of becoming a fully peaceful civilization, these were replaced with more advanced non-lethal type disabling weapons if such an occasion ever arose for their use.

As we evolved into a healthy cultural environment that did not promote violence, entertainment took on a refreshingly optimistic and more truly useful informative nature. The news media no longer being controlled by the past group's agenda to engineer the consent of the masses, now gave honest important unmanipulated information of value.

Money and the use of secrecy no longer could be used for control and corruption, as the lessons of the past were well learned to never allow this to ever happen again.

A renaissance unlike any other time in recorded history is allowing, through the release of knowledge and advanced technologies, a complete transformation and clean up of our beautiful planet. The awareness that much of the division and fabricated wars that have happened in the world has been done by these hidden elements and their continual engineered division of the people, actually brought all people of the world together, realizing we are not each others enemy, with the real enemy of the people fully identified and now neutralized to no longer impede our evolution, world conflicts now were only in history archives.

And so a new world was realized...

Science advanced exponentially in understanding our world and who we are. Education tapped the full potential of human resources and the powers of consciousness. As the population's consciousness expanded, so did the development of our spiritual gifts, such as telepathy became common, therefore deception became more transparent and unacceptable. Through this wisdom, people started to live by the golden rule in how they treated each other; no longer was it that, the one who has the gold shall be entitled to make the rules in disregard for others as a whole, as a new exchange system was created so that money, as it was once used by the central bank, was no longer able to be a tool for corruption.

With the secrets disclosed and the corrupt elements removed and the world living a peaceful existence with all peoples of the world, this opened up an interaction with other peaceful off-planet cultures. This exchange further greatly advanced humanity, and allowed us also to travel among the stars, and we then became welcomed by other peaceful civilizations throughout the cosmos.

The children of the future reading and understanding the great challenges the human race faced in the past on this planet were filled with gratitude for the souls that helped usher in the world which they now live in.

Imagine that
